The day of sale came, and of the large crowd assembled at the Court House, few hid against Mr. for the old family negroes. Away behind the rest, on the ground, leaning against a fence, sat "old daddy Cesar," beat almost double, showing his almost toothless guns, and with eyes looking as dim as a mischievous twin-life would allow them to do. Of course no planter wished to burden himself with such a "boy," and the auctioneer knocked him off to our friend for $50. O OREGON FIRE COMPANY, NO. 3. It an informal gathering of members of this Cor pany at their Hall, on Sunday afternoon, 23¢ just, the growing evil of intemperance in the Fir. We are not willing to admit that en one of us is under the daily dominion of the rant, but as all who finally become so, start as t ec as we are now-let us shatter his powerlesanacles while yet impotent, and not become votees at the unholy shrine. By adlaring strict-I to our pledge of total abstinence, our influence and example on the bright side of humanity will e incalculable. Shall we not make it as wideread as possible, and thus ennoble and elevate our character as me n and as Firemen? It canno e denied that the fair fame of the Fire Departnent has been sullied, has suffered severely from he too copious use of alcholic drinks, not only at heir more severe trials at fires, but the most rivial occasions have been made the pretext for uch rainous excesses. Shall we not wipe the oul stain from our escutcheon and enhance the good will and confidence of our fellow-citizens !--Petty-brawls, quarrels, noise, confusion, rowdysm, disjointed organization, dislocated method of action, when on duty, go hand in hand with intemperance. By expelling the dangerous and baneful influence of the demon from our midst, we will secure in our official intercourse, peace, harmony, unanimity and unexampled prosperity. In conclusion, we would say, through you, t the citizens at large, do not put the poisoned chalice to our lips, through pride or gratitude, for our disinterested services-furnish us in stend, when necessary, simple substantial articles of diet, and we will battle to the end our common enemy. Finally, we wish we were possessed of trumpet-tongued eloquence to reach and convince the great and noble heart of the whole Fire Departrass and its participation therein: vass and its participation therein:

The organization we act with may not be the one best salspted to procue the adoption of the principles we cherish. But is this an abundanted of principle? A support of Hunkerism?—The Democratic Madison Convention was a dastardly, corrupt affair; a libel on decency and the Party. We so declared it. Its Nomines for Governor is an unworthy man, not fit for the office. We so stated, and moreover stated that we should not support him. We had gone into the organization, our paper was committed to the Convention, and we felt it the duty therefore for the paper to support its Nominees. It was done Convention, and we let the day of the paper to support its Nominees. It was done under portest, and our opinion freely stated. Was this a surrendering of whatever principles we ever nossessed to Hunkerism? We get poor thanks for it from the curs and backs of the Party.

A HEAVY SHAVE .- It is known that Mr. Row's . WALKER is now in England endeavoring to neotiste a loan for the Illinois Central Rail Road. Rumor says that he has in part succeeded in this mission; but if the following statement from the New York Tribune, of the 19th inst, is well-founded it will prove a "hard bargain" for the American Stockholders:

can Stockholders:

Believing that it may interest some of those engaged in Railroads to know the terms upon which their bonds are exchanged for iron, we state that we have now before us a letter from a friend in London, giving the particulars of a transaction of the previous week, in which the bonds were shaved filtera per cent, and then paid for in iron at £5 17s 6d, the cash value of which was £4 16s. If any of our readers should undertake to calculate this, they will find that nearly three thousand dollars' worth of bonds are given for two thousand dollars' worth of bonds are given for two thousand dollars' worth of bonds are given for two thousand dollars' worth of bonds are given for two thousand dollars' worth of bonds are given for two thousand dollars' worth of inon—and that appears to us to be paying rather dear for the whistle called Free Trade. When such are the circumstances under which iron is obtained, we need scarcely be surprised that the consumption dinnishes instead of increasing, notwithstanding the vast growth of population. The roof of the Uving House was shottered by the camon ball from the lost.

A proposition to take the fort, was made to the Alcalde by the American, and accepted, and the attropt was to be made immediately. The blacks were in full possession of the fort, and one rifleman, a returned Californian, was seen to pick off five of them successively, as they attempted todies chance the cumon!
